Comments to the Author

1) You may need to update your references. The latest reference is from 2017.

- 2) There are some grammar and typing errors, you should edit the article.
- 3) After the first use, you do not need to write down the explanation of an abbreviation (see Page3).
- 4) In Figure 7, you have a flowchart for a quantum-inspired genetic algorithm. Have you developed this process scheme by yourself? If not, you need to add a reference.
- 5) At the beginning of the article, you mentioned the time window, but in the experiments, I could not find any information about the time or time frame constraints of patients.
- 6) The results and discussion section should be enhanced. Here, the algorithm utilized only for 9 patients and 5 teams. To increase the credibility of this research article you should support your results with various scenarios, and compare the results for the methods.
- 7) Did you verify and validate your algorithm? If yes, how? You may mention the verification and validation of your algorithm.
